

Cardiff University Teams up with Astute for Mobile Enterprise Network Administration

December 14th 2008 - Cardiff University, one of Britain's leading teaching and research Universities with an international reputation for the quality of its work, today announced it has teamed up with Award Winning Astute Mobile Data Solutions, a Research in Motion Strategic Alliance Partner, and Rove UK's Regional Vertical Alliance Partner, to implement Rove's Mobile Admin at its educational institution.

Mobile Admin is a complete enterprise solution that enables the unified administration of all servers, including Windows and UNIX, as well as routers and switches. Mobile Admin 4.1 also provides administrators with the ability to view their Windows environment exactly as it appears on the screen of their desktop or laptop.

"Having the ability to administer our BlackBerry Service from a secure BlackBerry Smartphone is an interesting concept and I was really keen to see how this could be deployed in our environment" commented Mark Hale, Senior Applications Specialist at Cardiff University. "The University plans to grow its BlackBerry user community over the next 12 months, and working with Astute to implement Mobile Admin I am confident this solution will greatly increase the support team's mobile effectiveness in managing this growth."

"We are really pleased to be working with one of our country's leading research and teaching universities, particularly one with such exciting mobile development and growth plans," commented Simon Poole, Managing Director of Astute."
